Subject: RE: Final attainment date extension/reclassification rule

Hi Robyn,

Thank you for letting us know the direction the state will be taking regarding next steps for '08 ozone. The final rule for attainment date extensions and reclassifications is still with EPA. I have not seen a draft of the preamble yet but anticipate one will be circulated for regional review in the next week or so. I should have more information about the final notice status by next Wednesday but last I heard, we are trying to finalize action by the end of spring.

Subject: Final attainment date extension/reclassification rule

Hey Michael and Abby:

Good morning! Just wanted to check in and see if you had heard anything about the status of the final rule re: attainment date extension/reclassification to Serious. We'd be interested in knowing if the rule is out for final review by OMB, etc., or whether it's still at EPA, if you can tell me.

Also, in case you hadn't heard, I wanted to let you know that Governor Polis has directed the Air Division not to pursue 179B at this time, and to turn our focus towards preparing for a Serious reclassification. That's now been made public, but only as of last Friday.

Hope all is well,
Robyn
